Disney Photographer Speaks

IDAHO

MARCH, 15, 1955

The second of the Audubon screen tour lectures and motion pictures—a part of the lyceum program offered students on their activity tickets—will be presented Wednesday evening, March 16 at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Dr. Olin S. Pettingill, Jr., a nationally known ornithologist and wildlife photographer, will present an illustrated lecture on the Black Hills of South Dakota. It will be entitled, "In the Hills of Gold."

He is presently an associate professor of ornithology at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. and has had plenty of experience to qualify him as a photographer of nature.

In 1931 he was photographer on the Carnegie Museum expedition to the Hudson Bay area, bringing back the first photographs of a number of birds in the north country; in 1944 he was commissioned to photograph the abundant wildlife of the National Audubon Society sanctuaries in Texas and in 1953 he was sent by Disney to the Kalkland Islands to make a documentary film on penguins. Besides this film, he has been used to make many of the successful Walt Disney nature movies.

Many people are acquainted with the Black Hills of South Dakota and have seen the Mount Rushmore memorial, but they are possibly unaware of the nature treasures there. The climate and fertility of the Black Hills region are such as to support varied fauna and flora. Here, near the famous towns of Deadwood, and Lead, former stamping grounds of "Wild Bill" Hickock, Deadwood Dick, Poker Alice, and Calamity Jane, Dr. Pettingill, recognized as one of the top-ranking nature photographers in the country, has made a new motion picture—a rich and colorful film story of a rich and colorful region.

The first lecture given last November was very well attended by BJC students who have the privilege of admission on their activity tickets since the student executive board has made a lump payment to the Boise Valley Natural Historical Society to honor all tickets for this lecture. Students are urged to take advantage of this informative program.

It is hoped that next year the student executive board and the lyceum committee will be able to arrange an even better program of entertainment than what has been offered this year. The incentive to do this will result only from an interest exhibited by students in such a program.

New Copies of Old Favorites

"Here's something I've always wanted to read" is a comment heard frequently around the library this week as students discover the fresh, new copies of old favorites. Some 50 novels, all of long standing on best-reading lists, have just been added to the growing BJC collection. Among titles ready to be loaned out are:

Bridges at Toko-Ri, by James Michener
You Can't Go Home Again, by Thomas Wolfe
Steamboat Gothic, by Frances Keyes
Oil for the Lamps of China, by Alice Hobart
Three Harbours, by Van Wyck Mason
Young Lions, by Irwin Shaw
Hurricane, by Charles Nordhoff
Jean-Christophe, by Romain Rolland
The Small Miracle, by Paul Gallico
Oliver Twist, by Kenneth Roberts

The King's General, by Daphne Du Maurier
Beau Geste, by P. C. Wren
Cimarron, by Edna Ferber
David the King, by Gladys Schmitt
The Wall, by John Hersey
All Quiet on the Western Front, by Erich Remarque
Studs Lonigan, by James Farrell.

Bob VanBuskirk, former BJC student, visited the campus last week enroute to Salt Lake City, where he will be employed. He is married to the former Shirley M. Smith, editor of the Roundup in 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Huff are parents of a baby girl born March 9. She weighs four pounds, 14 oz., and her name is Jonja Marie.

Sidney Hultgren

Student Wins State Piano Audition

Sidney Hultgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hultgren of West Jefferson, won the state piano audition for the state of Idaho in Twin Falls Saturday, March 12. These auditions are held by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Hultgren competed against other piano students from colleges in the state whose age ranged from 16 to 25; she is 18. She is a freshman at BJC and has been a pupil of Carroll Meyer for about four and one-half years. Prior to that time studied with other.

Recognition wins her the right to go to the district competition in Salt Lake City, March 19, where she will compete against students from Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Montana. Besides being granted a certificate, she received $25. She is majoring in music at BJC and holds the Tuesday Musicale scholarship. She will appear in a student recital held under the BJC department of music and the piano, she plays the piano and is assistant organist at the Lutheran church.

Dr. Olin S. Pettingill, Jr., Disney photographer, will give a lecture entitled "In the Hills of Gold" in the auditorium Wednesday at 8:00 p.m.

B-Cubes

A cake sale was held Saturday, March 12, at Sears from 10 until 5 p.m. This ended the money making projects before the Cotton Swing to be held April 1. Plans are now underway for the dance and "Country Style" has been chosen as the theme.

Interfaith Council

Interfaith Council will meet today in Dr. Baker's office to make plans for the activities of the group for the rest of the year. Special consideration will be given the subject, "How can religion be made more dynamic on BJC campus?" Barton Ballantyne is their chairman.

Graduate Receives Honors

Glen Hostetter, BJC graduate with the class of 1953, currently registered in engineering at the U. of Idaho, has been named the outstanding mechanical engineer by the university chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Selection was based on scholastic standing, outside activities, group participation and leadership characteristics.

While at BJC he was active in Pi Sigma Sigma and the marching and concert bands.

The Goldfish

Upon a stand within a bowl
That strips and bares his little soul
Swims Percy, sleek and cute as Puck—

My goldfish, for a half a buck.
His streamlined body shining bright
Provides my friends with great delight.

They stoop and stare as Percy swims,

And demonstrates his many whims.
At each performance, never fails,
His standard is a certain scale.
Imagine what it's like to pass
A lonely lifetime under glass,
With passers-by to stop and grin,
And have just anything drop in.
The convex shape of Percy's place
Exaggerates his little face.
The bowl distorts his shape a lot—
Sometimes he's cute, sometimes he's not.

I stifle chuckles deep inside
Each time his face is magnified.
But then, I ponder as I grin—
I'm on the outside, looking in.
What if the case were turned about—

If I were inside, looking out?
I don't suppose I'd sport much class—
Displayed through rounded bits of glass.

Yes, Percy, I'd give a lot to see
The apparition that is me!

Walston Represents BJC at Conference

Rod Walston, an outstanding member of the BJC speech department, has been chosen by the student executive board to represent the student body at the eighth annual Borah Peace Conference.

Rod was chosen chiefly because of his debating experience. Recently he won the all Idaho collegiate oratory for 1953 in which he competed with students from senior colleges.

Wednesday morning, March 16, Rod will fly to Moscow for the two-day conference and return Thursday evening.

Qualified speakers at the conference will discuss various aspects of the topic "The United Nations—Is It the Road to Peace?" Also several forums will be presented.

The conference began eight years ago after a fund was set up by Salmon O. Levinson in honor of William Edgar Borah.

Committee chairmen for the Morrison-Driscoll Formal Dance are (standing) Dale Ed Johnson, (seated) Fauneal Mink and Dorothy Asmussen.

Campus Chatter

Former Graduate Visits BJC

Former graduate 2nd Lieutenant Don Newbill visited BJC last week. Don earned his wings as a jet pilot while stationed in Texas. He plans to complete his college next semester. Don said he had seen quite a number of former BJC students in many parts of the United States.

Swimming Party—Given's Springs

Suite E of Morrison Hall had a swimming party at Given's Springs. Later they enjoyed dinner at Ada Billick's home. Fauneal Mink, Bonnie Cherry, Jackie Selby, Merylyn Geisler, Ada Billick, Jan White and Dixie Jo Howell attended the party.

Nothing's Right

Dorothy Asmussen was very surprised upon entering her room. Everything had been turned upside down, lids were on the bottles and a mess in general. It seems some of the girls had played a friendly joke on her. The occasion was her recent engagement to Bill Schink. Pictures were taken for her memory book.

Surprise!

Benny Chathurn had a pleasant surprise when his mother, father, sister and some friends visited him.

Latin-American Music Is Featured At Assembly

Latin-American music played by Flemming Orem will be featured at a special assembly today at 11:20 in the auditorium.

Students must present their activity tickets or 50c at the door.

M. Flemming Orem has been featured with the J. H. Hurtado Guatemala band that brought the modern marimba to this country. At the age of 16, while still in high school, Mr. Orem started his career as a soloist with a series of programs on the Columbia Broadcasting company. Later he had his own program on the NBC network, has appeared as soloist in many leading hotels throughout the country and in most of the legations and embassies in Washington, D.C., his home town.

Although the marimba is noted for the tango, rumba and other Latin-American rhythms, which Mr. Orem plays like a native, he also does our own styles of music in a manner that will keep your feet dancing.

You will have a pleasant surprise when you hear some of the familiar melodies of Beethoven, Brahms, Liszt or Chopin interpreted.

Morrison-Driscoll Formal Dance

March 18th is the Morrison-Driscoll Formal Dance. The theme of the Green" and will be Irish style. It will be by Mary Lou on Carico, Bob Nelson, Goin. The Melody Man playing the music.

Do You Know Your College Buildings?

Big oaks from little acorns grow. This old proverb could well be applied to our expanding campus facilities at Boise Junior College.

Boise Junior College district came into existence when Boise voters created the junior college district in March, 1939, by a majority of 1014 to 235.

The first property acquired was the old 110-acre airport along the south bank of the Boise river. This property was an outright grant to the college by the city.

The embryonic stages of BJC's life had taken place in St. Margaret's hall, but with the district's creation, and the administration building's completion in 1940, the campus moved across the river.

The Administration building was financed by a bond issue which carried by a vote of 3040 to 305. The completed cost was $260,000. The heating plant and gymnasium were completed the same year with the auditorium being completed the following year.

Morning coffee breaks and card games must have been a little rougher in these early days of BJC, for it was not until 1942 that the Student Union building was erected. BJC, Inc., a private corporation, financed the building and the bond payments at a cost of $25,000. This building does not belong to the college—it belongs to the students, and its affairs are handled by the corporation's board of directors.

In 1941, the state health department approached the college to ask for some ground for a health research center. BJC gave them the ground, with the stipulation that the center would serve the community. It has since served well, and the building was purchased by the college shortly after the second world war.

Bronco Stadium, the home of BJC's nationally recognized football team, was also built by a private corporation. The 10,000-seat stadium was completed in 1950, under the direction of the Bronco Stadium Corporation.

A welcome campus addition was the completion of the two dormitories in 1951. A bond issue of $500,000 financed this construction, which had been approved in 1950 by a vote of 1618 to 236.

The modern campus school went into operation in 1953. BJC was then the only college in the state with a public school situated on its campus. This has been a great benefit to the Future Teachers of America.

T-1 and T-2 were acquired from Gowen Field in 1947 and have served as speech, radio and natural science classrooms.

Farther east on the campus, we find the housing units, with apartments available to married students. These units were brought in shortly after the second world war to accommodate the influx of veterans.

The vocational shops had their beginnings in two of the airport's hangars, and have since added another building.

Two new structures are presently in the early building stages. With the completion of the new science building and the new gymnasium, our campus will be a far cry from the early days at St. Margaret's Hall.

Highlights of Carnival

It was rumored that this year's Valkyrie-IRC Carnival was one of the best ever to be presented.

The can-can girls were a sight to behold. Seems some of them had quite a time keeping their costumes on! J.C. made a wonderful strip-tease dancer! For a while there, the audience, including J.C. himself, was wondering if the sheriff was ever going to get there in time to haul him off!

The slave auction was a real hit. Some of the slaves went for as high as $7.

By the way, did George Beall, Jack Moore and company ever get their fill of cake? They only won around 6 or 7 cakes on the cake-walk. Kaye Dick: Are you still puzzled by the whereabouts of your derby hat? Did Mr. Schwartz ever get all the balloons he wanted?

A beautiful portable radio, won by Darrell Gunderson, was the door prize.

Membership Drive

International Relations club is in the throes of expansion and remodeling. The expansion is in the form of new members, especially freshmen.

IRC is a group of students banded together to attempt to understand the problems and views of other nations thru discussions and speakers, and to help other people thru sponsorship of fund drives, such as World University Service.

The remodeling will be the election of club officers for the rest of this year and a greater part of next.

A potluck dinner will be held, so that new members may learn more about IRC and its functions, tonight at 6:30 in the Student Union, with a meeting to follow. Reports from Rod Walston and Miss McBirney, club advisor, on the Northwest IRC conference at Tacoma, will be followed by election of officers.

Persons wishing to attend the potluck please call Dayleen Hobson at 3-0236 to make reservations and food choices.

The crowning of the king, Jack Quigley, and the queen, Diana Aburusa, brought the carnival to a close.

None to Spare Or Bowled Over

By Keith Craig

I'll sure be glad when baseball, or track, or anything starts again so I can quit writing this darn foolishness for the sports page. Already I've racked my feeble brain in the writing of articles regarding such things as tennis and archery, and now, bowling.

Now I'm not one to argue that bowling isn't a good healthful sport and all that, but I just can't seem to get thrilled about it. This is perhaps due to several unfortunate experiences I had with this fiendish game.

I first came in contact with bowling in the form of duckpins, a sort of junior legion type of the sport. There were several sports around town who became so adept at bowling strikes that the game lost its flavor, so to speak.

These gents then developed an off-shoot of the game known as strike-the-pin-boy, and you guessed it, I was the pin boy. I wasn't born with this depression in my head.

The next experience I had cost a little loot. I had decided to try this sport on a regulation alley. I craftily observed how easily the other bowlers eyed the pins, swung back the ball, and danced forward to release it. It all looked so easy that I chuckled slightly to myself as I strode confidently to the ball rack and flicked a likely looking one into my left hand. My chuckle disintegrated into a scream as I caught the ball deftly on my left big toe. These balls weighed more than the duck pin bowling balls.

Well, the real trouble started when I tried that backswing. I had eyed the pins like a professional and counted my steps to the foul line, but when I swung that ball back, it just kept on going.

A dignified looking lady in the third row of the spectators seats ducked just in time and said some pretty undignified things to me regarding my ancestors.

The ball came to rest, a perfect strike, right in a glass trophy counter. I decided not to shoot my second ball.

So, kiddies, I've just got to pass bowling this week, you see, I just can't get excited.

Volleyball Starts

Moberly, Mo., Takes Title Second Broncos Garner Three Wins In F

For the second time in as many years Moberly JC of Moberly, Missouri, won the National JC basketball tournament at Hutchinson, Kansas. The Moberly team had a rough night of it in the finals as Hannibal-La Grange fought it out to a double overtime. The final score 71-64 for Moberly.

Coffeyville 78, BJC 70. In their first action of the tournament the Broncos were downed 78-70 by the Red Ravens of Coffeyville, Kansas.

After holding a 31-29 lead at the half the Broncos faded somewhat and the Red Ravens pulled ahead. The Broncos cut the Ravens' lead to 63-60 in the late minutes but Art Bedard fouled out and the Bronco attack seemed to backfire.

The Broncos were beaten at the free throw line as the Ravens collected 34 points to the Broncos 14 on charity tosses.

Tipton of Coffeyville was high scorer with 24 markers. Moore got 19 for the Broncos.

BJC 70, Howard County, Texas 63.

With Don Moore and Dick Hartley showing the way the Broncos came from behind to whip Howard County JC 70-63 in the consolation bracket of the national tournament.

After trailing 42-30 the Broncos whittled a lead until late in the game when they grabbed the lead and

Moore and Hartley took with 21 and 18 points respectively. Wickard led the BJC with 16 points.

BJC 74, Pueblo, Colo. Again Dick Hartley the Broncos bested Pueblo to reach the losers' bracket.

Time and time again broke through the zone Pueblo to take a pass and score with his left hand.

McGill collected 28 points while Hartley led the Broncos.

BJC 60, Tyler, Texas 44.

Tyler, Texas, who had averaging 90 points per game, held to 54 points as the Broncos whipped them 60-54 in bracket finals. The Broncos fifth place in the tournament and Tyler eighth.

Playing control type basketball the Broncos held a lead most of the way, at the half 30-26.

Moore led the way with 16 points. Boone got 16 for
